Find out how you can transform your summer reading program and attract a broader elementary and family audience! This hands-on workshop features activities that are specifically designed for the theme “Dig Into Reading” and have the 4-H flair for science learning that is informal and fun. Participants will receive a “Partnering with 4-H” manual as well as tips and tools that will make putting together and promoting programs a snap!

Two topics will be covered: Ancient Creatures/Dinosaurs and Gardening

Instructors: Donna Cooke, Cornell’s Garden-Based Learning Program

Kelly Ann Radzik, NYS Library Partnership Coordinator and Resource

Extension Educator for Cornell Cooperative Extension of Columbia and Greene Counties

OPEN to UHLS and MVLS member libraries only: FREE WORKSHOP***

**While this is a free training, there are some library evaluation requirements that you agree to complete by attending this training. Please read the attached sheet. Your attendance equals your agreement.*

Each UHLS library sending staff to the training will receive mileage reimbursement and some funding for supplies for science programs. Amount of support will be based on number of libraries participating; expected to be no less than $100.
